MANAGEMENT OF SUSPECTED ECTOPIC PREGNANCY WHERE THERE IS NO IMMEDIATE ACCESS TO AN OPERATING THEATRE

Female menarche (12 yo) to menopause (50 yo) presents with abdomen/pelvic pain SUSPECT ECTOPIC PREGNANCY (Ignore contraceptive history) VITAL SIGNS UNSTABLE VITAL SIGNS STABLE ■ Resuscitation Urine Bhcg ■ IV fluid ■ Blood ■ O₂ ■ Urinary catheter $\rightarrow \beta hcg$ POSITIVE NEGATIVE ■ Urgent ambulance transport to gynaecology or surgical specialist unit (When calling 000 for the Further appropriate efer immediately to specialist Ambulance, after providing investigation ynaecology unit: initial details demand to speak to the Ambulance Ultrasound to be performed Clinician at Ambulance at specialist gynaecology Victoria call centre) unit

Patient to be moved to specialist gynecology unit by the quickest available method of transport